LEAP × LIVE FEST 26

Tokens for the LIVE Fest tracker. LEAP owns the surface, LIVE Fest owns the signal. Anything structural is navy and blue; cyan and pink mean a campaign number and nothing else, so a Fest figure reads differently from an ordinary diamond total before you have read the label.

Colour

LEAP, the surface

LEAP Blue
#004AAD
Primary actions, links, the logo. Never body text on dark.

Blue Lift
#6AA6FF
Where LEAP Blue has no contrast on a dark surface.

Base
#05080F
The page. Near black, never pure black, so depth survives.

Surface
#101A2E
Cards. One step up, with a hairline border.

LIVE FEST, the signal

Fest Cyan
#25F4EE
TikTok published. Points, progress, anything earned.

Fest Red
#FE2C55
TikTok published. Deadlines and the end of a window.

Fest Pink
#EF62AC
Sampled from the campaign key art. Gradient middle.

Fest Magenta
#C33264
Sampled. Depth under the arc, rarely on its own.

The signature arc

linear-gradient(118deg, #25F4EE 0%, #EF62AC 48%, #FE2C55 100%)
The campaign band at the top of a page, and the one primary Fest action. Never behind body text, never as a card fill, never on a progress bar or a figure. Those use flat Fest Cyan, which is what keeps the arc meaning something.

State

Hit
#4FE08A
Cleared, banked, done.

At risk
#FFB648
A deadline inside a week.

Behind
#FF5F6D
Missed, or can no longer be met.

Idle
#5D6F91
Not started, or nothing to say yet.

Type

TikTok Sans where it loads, the system face everywhere else. On a Mac or an iPhone that falls to SF, which is most of where the Apple feel comes from. Numbers are always tabular so a column does not jitter as it updates.

Rules

The arc appears twice, at most. The campaign band at the top of a page, and the one primary Fest action on it. Everywhere else that wants to feel like the campaign uses flat Fest Cyan. The gradient is the campaign's voice; spread it across progress bars and figures and it becomes wallpaper.

Cyan means earned. If a number did not come from LIVE Fest it is not cyan. That single rule is what lets a coach skim a page.

Red is a deadline, not an error. Behind uses #FF5F6D. Fest Red is reserved for when a window closes.

No money on a coach surface. Carried over from the portal. Coins yes, pounds no.

Numbers are tabular, always. A tracker updates every morning and a column that shifts by a pixel reads as broken.

Depth is a border, not a shadow. One hairline and one step on the surface ramp.

Fest colours sampled from the campaign key art in the 23 and 26 October agency recordings, reconciled against TikTok's published pair. Replace with the official asset pack the moment the agency toolkit lands.
